Work-Based Learning experiences enable students to feel confident and prepared for their future, and employers gain a talented pool of homegrown job applicants they helped generate.

Simply put, the goal is to connect students with industry partners for valuable conversations and real-life immersion experiences.

Breakout Session #2

What can you do this year to engage industry partners with your students?
Advisory Boards help to connect students to the world of work

- Advisory Board involvement (ST Model)
  - Our Perkins/Program Advisory Committee meets twice a year and focuses on curriculum, nationally-recognized industry certifications, and programmatic issues around funding and enhancement of CTE classes. Time for leaders to meet current students and discuss the pathway and how it is applicable to them now and in the future.

- Advisory Boards operate as a separate entity of the school district (Appo Model)
  - They are non-profit organizations that meet on a regular basis, typically once a month or more.
    - Middle and high school teachers share same industry partners
Industry Support for Career Readiness

Goals of the Advisory Boards:

○ Provide active partnerships between the industry leaders, the teachers, and the students
○ Provide work-based learning opportunities and employment for students for the School District
○ Raise funds and receive assistance with tools and supplies, for scholarships and activities related to the pathway
○ Begin youth apprenticeship programs in supporting businesses as early as senior year of high school
○ Teach soft-skills to students that are pathway and industry specific to better prepare them for WBL and employment
Industry Support for Career Readiness

Outcomes of the Advisory Boards:

- Keeps teachers and students up-to-date with industry trends and industry credentials
- Can help recruit new CTE teachers from industry
- Make recommendations for improving pathways to make students more marketable in the future
